Safeguarding our Values and Beliefs

Effective corporate governance and risk management

Effective corporate governance and risk management are integral to managing Deutsche Bank. Our Management Board and Supervisory Board, as well as the senior management of our Group, recognise the importance of this Code and our values to our corporate governance and risk management controls and have instituted various measures to uphold them.

- We aspire to have clear organisational structures with transparent and consistent lines of responsibility and accountability, presence of key control structures and a well-functioning framework of checks and balances.
- We foster supportive relationships between the Management Board and the Supervisory Board as well as with our shareholders and other stakeholders.
- We monitor compliance with the provisions of this Code and require that any material issues or concerns, including any remediation measures taken, be reported.
- We designate certain employees as “supervisors” who, among other things, are responsible for instituting reasonable measures to facilitate and promote compliance with Deutsche Bank’s applicable laws, rules, regulations and policies and who oversee such compliance.
- We expect our supervisors and senior employees to set an ethical example for how to behave in the workplace and set the “tone at the top.”

- We communicate what is expected of our employees through this Code, our policies, our values and other channels, including keeping employees up-to-date on any changes to these standards.
- We reinforce our standards through periodic training, the provision of reliable mechanisms for reporting violations and taking appropriate actions for misconduct.
- We maintain an open and supportive environment that encourages the raising of questions and concerns.

Deutsche Bank has a strong risk management culture and expects its employees to be aware of risks in their everyday businesses. Examples of the strong risk management cultural behaviours expected of our employees include:

- inviting, providing and respecting challenge;
- being rigorous, forward-looking and comprehensive in the assessment of risk;
- troubleshooting collectively;
- being fully responsible for Deutsche Bank’s risks; and
- placing Deutsche Bank and its reputation at the heart of all decisions.

Adherence to this Code

Deutsche Bank requires all of its employees to read and follow the letter and spirit of this Code. Failure to comply with any provision of this Code is a serious violation and may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Employees are required to report promptly any concerns or possible violations of laws, rules, regulations, our policies (which can be obtained from the intranet or local supervisors) or this Code to their supervisors, other representatives of management, Compliance, Corporate Security & Business Continuity, Employee Relations, Group Audit, Human Resources, Legal, Global Corporate Governance or the Employee Hotline. Information on the Employee Hotline can be obtained from the intranet or your local Compliance Officer. Reports can be made anonymously (when permissible under local law), but reports should provide enough information to allow Deutsche Bank to investigate the matter properly. In addition, Deutsche Bank policy prohibits retaliation against any employee for reporting, when based on a reasonable belief that a suspected violation has occurred, is ongoing or is likely to occur.

Compliance with this Code is not a guarantee of continued or indefinite employment. The Code does not create a contract, does not alter the terms and conditions of an employee's employment with Deutsche Bank and may be changed at any time, without notice, by Deutsche Bank.

If you have any questions or concerns about a potential course of action, you should check with the relevant policy and/or escalate your concerns to your supervisor and/or to Compliance or Legal.
