Deutsche Bank, which first established a presence in Singapore in 1972, now employs nearly 2,000 staff in Singapore, which is the bank's regional head office.

Singapore is one of Deutsche Bank's major regional hubs, serving 15 markets in Asia Pacific as the regional headquarters for business lines including Corporate & Investment Banking (CIB), Deutsche Bank Wealth Management and DWS. Singapore is also the regional head office for a number of infrastructure functions, including Group Technology & Operations and Finance.

Deutsche Bank's Singapore front office and back office staff work across two locations: One Raffles Quay in the iconic Marina Bay financial district, and Mapletree Business City in Alexandra Road.

Deutsche Bank Singapore is a firm believer in workplace diversity and the benefits that derive from an inclusive culture. Staff in Singapore comprise more than 40 different nationalities, with a good balance of men and women.

Singapore is a natural hub for many of the Bank's businesses. Deutsche Bank facilitates liquidity flows to and/or on behalf of many of Asia's governments and leading companies. The Singapore office is a centre of structuring excellence, where the Bank seeks to innovate across a range of asset classes in order to help further develop capital markets in multiple countries across the region. The global markets business includes sales, trading and research for foreign exchange, interest rates, equities and credit.

In Global Transaction Banking, Deutsche Bank Singapore provides its clients with cash management and trade finance products and services to enable intra- and inter-regional trade, as well as securities services encompassing custody, clearing and settlement as well as fund services, and trust and agency services including corporate trust and depositary receipts services.

Not only is Singapore a regional hub, the Singapore business is also a leader in the local market. It has strong client relationships with government-linked companies, local corporations and other financial institutions, evident in the repeat business it has received from some of Singapore's top companies. Over the years, the Bank has been recognised with numerous awards for excellence in transactions and finance solutions.

Singapore is also the regional hub for Deutsche Bank Wealth Management in Asia, whose clients enjoy access to the Bank's global resources and investment expertise. As one of the world's largest wealth managers and a valued partner for individuals, entrepreneurs, family offices and foundations, Deutsche Wealth Management has a rich toolkit of complex offerings and tailored solutions to meet sophisticated client requirements and access to capabilities in capital markets, structured finance, investment banking and asset management.

In Singapore, DWS offers individuals and institutions traditional and alternative investment options across all major asset classes. It is very active in Exchange Traded Funds (ETF), offering investors access to a total of 29 ETFs on the Singapore Exchange. Deutsche Bank views corporate social responsibility as an investment in society and in the future success of the company. Through its programmes Born to Be, Made for Good and In the Community,
