

Deutsche Bank in Singapore

Deutsche Bank, which first established a presence in Singapore in 1972, now employs more than 2,000 staff in its Singapore branch.

Singapore is one of Deutsche Bank's major regional hubs, serving as the regional headquarters for business lines including Corporate & Investment Banking (CIB), Global Markets, Deutsche Asset Management, and Deutsche Bank Wealth Management. Singapore is also the regional head office for a number of infrastructure functions, including Group Technology & Operations and Finance.

Deutsche Bank's Singapore staff work across two locations: One Raffles Quay in the iconic Marina Bay financial district, and Mapletree Business City in Alexandra.

Deutsche Bank Singapore is a firm believer in workplace diversity and the benefits that derive from an inclusive culture. Staff in Singapore comprise 42 different nationalities, with a good balance of men and women.

Singapore is a natural hub for many of the Bank's businesses. Deutsche Bank facilitates liquidity flows to and/or on behalf of many of Asia's governments and leading companies. The Singapore office is a centre of structuring excellence, where the Bank seeks to innovate across a range of asset classes in order to help further develop capital markets in multiple countries across the region. The Global Markets business includes sales, trading and research for foreign exchange, interest rates, equities and credit.

In Global Transaction Banking, Deutsche Bank Singapore provides its clients with cash management and trade finance products and services to enable intra- and inter-regional trade.

Not only is Singapore a regional hub, the Singapore business is also a leader in the local market. It has good client relationships with government-linked companies, local corporations and other financial institutions, evident in the repeat business it has received from some of Singapore's top companies. Over the years, the business has been recognised with numerous awards for excellence in transactions and finance solutions.

Singapore is also the regional hub for Deutsche Bank Wealth Management in Asia, whose clients enjoy access to the Bank's global resources and investment expertise. In Singapore Deutsche Asset Management offers individuals and institutions traditional and alternative investments across all major asset classes. It is very active in Exchange Traded Funds (ETF), offering investors access to a total of 48 ETFs on the Singapore Exchange.

Deutsche Bank is not only part of Singapore's financial community; the Bank also believes in contributing to the overall community. To this end, Deutsche Bank Asia has participated in a number of social initiatives in Singapore, including sponsoring underprivileged students as part of the Bank's global youth education programme, Born to Be.

Over the years, Deutsche Bank's work in the community has been recognised with a number of accolades including Corporate Philanthropist of the Year as part of Singapore's National Volunteerism and Philanthropy Awards. Deutsche Bank is also a keen supporter of art and music. Artistic inspirations give us new perspectives and challenges conventional thinking: this is not only good for the economy, but good for society at large. Deutsche Bank's signature Art Bus programme has ferried more than 10,000 primary school children annually to the Singapore Art Museum for introductions to contemporary art. The Bank also partners with the Singapore Chinese Orchestra and supports its community outreach initiatives. Recently the Bank's support for the arts in the Singapore community was recognised by the National Arts Council, which gave Deutsche Bank the Patron of the Arts Award.
